

2021 SANGIACOMO ROBERTS ROAD PINOT NOIR

ABOUT

From Sonoma's long respected family growers comes the fruit for our Sangiacomo Roberts Road Pinot Noir. Planted in 1999, Roberts Road Vineyard lies in the newly 2017 designated, yet long revered, Petaluma Gap AVA. For nearly half the day the vineyard is shrouded in fog and also influenced by coastal breezes, lending itself to slow, even growth and fruit development. The blocks of Pinot Noir we source from are at the base of Sonoma Mountain on the western side and feature well-draining, silty gravel soils.

Fun Fact: This vineyard has two watersheds. The southern end of the property drains to the San Pablo Bay while the northern section drains to the Russian River.

CHEF NOTES

The earthy and fruity characteristics of this Pinot Noir make it an ideal pairing for roast duck. The wine's acidity can cut through the richness, while its flavors harmonize with the savory notes.
